The transfer policies of the University of Indianapolis are as follows.

1. Credit earned through courses taken at other regionally accredited colleges or universities is transferable to the University of Indianapolis. Courses are individually evaluated, and normally a course is accepted if a grade of C- or better has been earned and if the course is applicable to a program of study offered at the University of Indianapolis. (The following exceptions should be noted: Basic writing and English composition are transferable only if a grade of C or above has been earned. In addition, some academic programs require C or above grades in all major courses. Any course with a grade below a C would not be transferable into these programs.)
2. Transfer credit is awarded only for courses that have traditional letter grades (e.g., A, B, C) or have grades or scores that are certified on the transcript as representing a grade of C- or above.
3. No transfer credit is granted for credit that another college or university has awarded for placement or proficiency examinations or for self-acquired competencies.
4. No official evaluation of transfer credit will be made until the student has applied, but the registrar or key advisors will discuss general issues of transfer credit with any student or prospective student.
5. The key advisor or program director in each academic unit evaluates transfer work in cooperation with the deans and chairs. Credit awarded in transfer for one program may not apply to another program; therefore, the transfer work will be reevaluated if the student changes majors.
6. Transfer credit appears on a student's academic record, and the hours are included in the student's earned hours. Grades are not transferable and will not appear on the student's record or be calculated into the grade point average.
